Position Title: University Housing Sustainability Ambassador

Join the dynamic team of University Housing Sustainability Ambassadors and become a leader in shaping the future of sustainability on campus! As a Sustainability Ambassador, you'll have the opportunity to make a real impact in the lives of new students by introducing them to the sustainability resources and initiatives at the University of Georgia. This is a unique experiential learning opportunity that will help you grow your interpersonal communication, community building, and leadership skills.

Responsibilities:

Assisting in creating a welcoming space for new residents by using passive programming to build awareness and engagement in campus sustainability initiatives such as the EcoRep program, recycling, composting, the Green Room Certificate, and the Green Cup Challenge.

Aiding University Housing's sustainability efforts through face-to-face outreach and passive programming in the form of tabling in the residence halls on a weekly basis.

Participating in sustainable outreach at the Residence Hall Association's Sustainability Fair program in mid-September.

Engaging in outreach and interaction with the Green Cup Challenge Kick Off event on TBD.

Averaging approximately 3 hours of engagement per week during the fall semester.

Qualifications:

Previous residency in University Housing.

Passion to learn and promote sustainable initiatives.

Have some prior leadership or tabling experience (Preferred).
